

Caterpillars

Caterpillars come in a myriad of colors and sizes; some damage trees and others turn into beautiful moths and butterflies. Chances are, if there are hundreds or thousands of caterpillars on your trees, some damage is bound to occur.

As several years' worth of defoliation can result in dieback or death of infested trees, professional advice on the use of control measures may be warranted, depending on the situation.

Western forest tent caterpillar